Subject: Results of SRV session for the week beginning 8 December, 1986.

1. Session Summary: Site is a wide, low, squarish brick building with a sloping grey/green roof, situated in a wide open area of very flat land.

I have had my usual "doorknobbing" problem with this site. Inside, I seem to be stuck in a maintenance room of some sort. It is a room with light green enameled walls and lockers or storage cabinets. There is a vertical, squarish shaped portion of the wall which juts out into the room, but I have no idea why this has been important to me.

On leaving the room to find something else, I find myself outside the building again, looking at the flat land.

2. RVer's critique: I feel confident that there was good and valid site contact. I feel, however, that for some reason, there was no value to the information obtained.
